DR. J. R. HENRY'S HOME IS DAMAGED BY FIRE AT NIGHT

Kentucky Avenue Presbyterian Parsonage Visited by Bad Blaze.

His Family Makes Escape Without Injury.

LOSS MORE THAN INSURANCE

Fire originating in the coal house caught the parsonage of the Kentucky Avenue Presbyterian church, 211 South Sixth street, this morning about 12:30 o'clock and damaged the building and contents about $4,500, with $3,000 insurance. It is not known how the blaze started, but when discovered the blaze had burst through the house. The Rev. J. R. Henry's little daughters, Katherine and Lucile, were sleeping over the library room and when they were carried from the room the fire was burning the curtains.

The coal house is on the alley and near the house. One load of coal was in the house and there was not any opportunity for spontaneous combustion, as it had been cleaned out Saturday. Mrs. Henry discovered the fire by the glare and a telephone alarm was turned in at once. Fire companies Nos. 1 and 4 responded and with two lines of hose quickly put an end to the blaze. The flames spread from the coal house to the rear of the parsonage and gained a foothold in the attic. The fire boys had odds against them, as the blaze was high, but by good, steady work the blaze was under control within a few minutes.

Everything in the house was water-soaked. Dr. Henry estimates the damage to his household goods at $2,000, with about half insurance. The loss to the building will be about $1,500, covered by insurance. The church, which adjoins, was not damaged beyond several broken windows. The heat from the fire scorched the home of Mr. John Dipple, but he prevented it from catching with garden hose until the firemen arrived. The water pressure was good and the nozzle kept the firemen jumping. The damage to Mr. Dipple's home will be about $100.

Dr. Henry and his family went down the steps in the front of the house, as this was not in danger, and escaped after hurriedly dressing. The silver from the dining room was saved before the heat reached it. The building will be repaired as soon as the insurance adjusters arrive and estimate the damage.

The Salvation Army.

The Salvation Army new officers, Captain and Mrs. Arthur E. Stanton, and their little daughter, Anna, the 10-year-old evangelist, have been busy since their arrival in this city last Tuesday. They have conducted nine street services, each being largely attended. Yesterday at 10 a. m. they conducted services at the foot of Broadway near the river. In the afternoon they held two residential meetings, one at Norton and Third streets and another at Norton and Fourth streets. In the evening they conducted services at Broadway and Fourth streets. The Stantons will conduct street services every evening this week, except Friday. Tonight services will be held at Broadway and Fourth streets.

Bloody Tragedy.

Johnson City, Tenn., Oct. 5.—One of the bloodiest tragedies in the history of East Tennessee occurred at Johnson City when Justice L. A. Bales, of Embreeville, who was at the home of his brother-in-law, Ben Bayless, residing in that city, attacked the latter while he was asleep in bed and chopped his head almost off with an ax. Bales then attacked the wife of Bayless, fatally wounding her with the ax. He sought his own wife, who was in the house, and struck her several blows. To control him it became necessary for the police to the him with a rope, and with this rope he hanged himself in his cell and was dead when discovered.

New York Tenement Fire Horror.

New York, Oct. 5.—Ten persons were killed and several were fatally and six seriously burned in an incendiary fire in the Mulberry street tenement district. Flames choked the only stairway before they were discovered. The fire escapes were littered and were impassable. Italian inmates were panic stricken and jumped into fiery furnace. Few escaped by jumping to adjoining buildings. A score leaped from upper windows and were badly hurt.

Two Sermons on Topics of Times.

"Though Noah, Daniel and Job were in it, as I live, saith the Lord, they should deliver neither son nor daughter. They shall deliver but their own souls by their righteousness."

Two sermons were preached yesterday by Paducah pastors on subjects pertinent to the great political struggle now going on. At the First Presbyterian church Rev. W. E. Cave took his text from Ezekiel, xiv., 20, as quoted in the foregoing, and preached on the "Limitation of God's Mercy," showing in the words of the prophet that on account of the moral condition of Jerusalem the presence of these three righteous men would not serve to save even their own children, to say nothing of the city itself. The moral responsibility that rests on the individual to preserve the state and the fact that there is a limitation to the forbearance of the deity was the burden of his discourse, while he showed the converse to be true, that a righteous citizenship would preserve a nation.

"Hosea and the Money Panic." Dr. David Cady Wright, rector of Grace church, last night began his series with "Hosea and the Money Panic," and will continue the series throughout October, pointing out the hand of Providence in the affairs of government and the citizen's responsibility to his God.

He briefly recited the story of the prophet, who saw in his desertion by the "wife of his youth" the desertion of God by Israel. Dr. Wright described the growth of spiritual insight in the prophet, and said all growth is by surges; that the corn leaves develop first, then the stock, then the ear. Children grow a few years and rest a year and grow more, and the brain develops the same way, and nations, too. He said this intermittent growth is natural and necessary. Periods of prosperity are not periods of real upward growth. By a beautiful illustration he showed how that when men's affairs are brightest they are self-sufficient and the tendency is downward; but when reverses come they turn to their God, and they hunt out the evil and remedy it and grow until good times come again.

Dr. Wright called attention to the looseness of moral ties and avarice that grew on the bountiful times, and he said as pain is a manifestation of God's mercy, warning us of some ill of the flesh, so these money panics warn us that there is something wrong that needs remedying in our lives. He said he has no fear of the outcome, if we only take heed to the warning, and he believes the basket has afforded us opportunity to study whither we were drifting.

In beginning Dr. Wright said that while he will not touch upon political issues directly or indirectly, he believes that if a minister has a message to deliver to the people, now is the time.

Negro Family Massacred at Hickman by Masked Men Sunday Morning Because They Resist Visitation

Alleged Insult Offered White Lady Arouses White-Cappers, Who Are Met With Guns.

Hickman, Ky., Oct. 5. (Special.)—Wholesale massacre of a colored family three miles below Hickman early Sunday morning by whitecaps leaves three members out of a family of seven living, and two of them are dying. Dave Walker, the father, was instantly killed during the attack, the oldest girl and the baby, which was shot in its mother's arms, died that night, and a boy died yesterday. The mother has a bullet in her abdomen. Only one member escaped by running. Alleged insulting language employed to a white lady is said to be the cause. About 50 men participated in the affair, and their names are not known.

According to the story that reached here, Dave Walker was arrested and fired for speaking roughly to a white lady and flourishing a revolver when her husband interfered. He is charged with telling bystanders after the trial that he was fixed for them. Shortly after midnight the mob called at the house, it is said to whip him. He refused to admit them, and when they burst in the doors he opened fire with a shotgun and his two boys with revolvers. Walker was killed instantly and one boy shot, so that he died. The other escaped in the woods. In the melee the oldest girl was mortally wounded, and two other children. The mother ran with her baby in her arms and she was shot down and the baby killed.

HORNSBY'S TRIAL POSTPONED FOR MORE WITNESSES

The charge against Will Hornsby, colored, for criminally assaulting Nita Powell, was reset in criminal court for Wednesday on account of several witnesses for the defense being absent this morning.

The court room was crowded with spectators when the case was reached this morning. Judge Reed made a statement from the bench in which he said that mob violence would not be tolerated.

Judge Reed said that Hornsby would be given a fair and impartial trial the same as any other defendant coming before the circuit court and declared he would use all the power of his office to prevent the stigma of a lynching being placed on the county.

EUROPEAN WAR IS THREATENED BY BULGARIA'S ACT

Turkey Will Resist With Arms Independence of Ferdinand's Country.

Austria Annexes Two Provinces at Same Time.

MEDIATION IS NOW PLANNED

Sofia, Bulgaria, Oct. 5.—A proclamation of Bulgarian independence has been made at the ancient capital, Tirnova. The cabinet made the proclamation and Prince Ferdinand signed it. All European chancelleries were notified but the text of the proclamation is withheld from the Bulgarians until answers are received from foreign courts.

The proclamation followed an all night conference of Ferdinand with his cabinet. Ferdinand proclaimed himself czar. The declaration of independence it is expected will mean war between Bulgaria and Turkey. Bulgaria has been preparing a long time. Orders for mobilizing troops were sent everywhere. It is expected 250,000 will be in the field within a week. It is reported Bulgarians are mobilizing near Adrianople for an attack the moment Turkey declares war.

Turkey Will Fight.

Constantinople, Oct. 5.—Turkey will answer Bulgaria with force. The cabinet is considering plans to meet the situation. Turkey has 150,000 soldiers available. ## NIGHT RIDERS PROBABLY ARE TO BE TOUCHED UPON BY GOV. WILLSON IN HIS SPEECH HERE

First Visit of Executive to Black Patch Tuesday Expected to Arouse Interest of People.

MAKES ADDRESS AT PRINCETON IN AFTERNOON; AT THE AUDITORIUM RINK, PADUCAH, AT NIGHT.

Senator-Elect Bradley Will Speak at Mayfield on Issues Next Monday.

Regardless of party affiliations most Paducahans will be interested in hearing Governor Willson at the Auditorium rink tomorrow night. Not only is this the first time Paducah has been honored by a visit from the executive since his election, but it is the first time since his controversy with the lawless night riders has aroused the Black Patch. People who have been reading of depredations, and seeing pass through the city soldiers who have succeeded in holding lawlessness in check, will be glad to hear from his own lips the opinions and policies of the governor, who is persistently following one course of action, regardless of criticism and slander. It is scarcely possible that Governor Willson can visit this part of the state without making some reference to the subject.

That is one reason why the Auditorium rink was selected as the place for holding the meeting. It is the largest room in the city and accommodations are being provided for all who can get in. The speaking will begin about 8:30, and it is probable that Mayor James P. Smith will preside and Judge E. W. Bagby introduce the governor.

Governor Willson, who will speak at Princeton tomorrow afternoon, will arrive here at 6:10 on the Illinois Central. A delegation will go to Princeton at noon to hear him and escort the governor to Paducah. What his arrangements are after that will be disclosed when the governor arrives.

GOV. WILLSON

HIGHLY COMPLIMENTED IN A SPEECH AT CLARKSVILLE.

In his masterly speech for the defense in closing the Hunt-Gardner trial at Clarksville, Tenn., Mr. H. N. Leach, the leading lawyer for the defense, and one of the giants of the Clarksville bar, paid the following just and eloquent tribute to Gov. Willson, that shows how he is regarded by those who are fighting for law and order, irrespective of any political credence and are too fair-minded to be biased thereof:

"Over there in Kentucky, where a perfect storm of lawlessness broke loose until men lost their faith, the good people elected a great man governor, and today no man can doubt that he has the right rider general and all his efficient tools on the run. From the beginning of this state we have had a brave, a noble, a courageous people that has never yet failed to meet a crisis and this people will meet this one. The manhood of Tennessee will yet arise and assert itself."

LONGWORTH SAYS REPORT OF SPEECH IS CAMPAIGN LIE

Cincinnati, O., Oct. 5.—Longworth

denounced the report of his recent speech suggesting that Roosevelt be re-elected after Taft, as a "campaign lie." He said he commented on Ohio as the mother of presidents, but after Taft served two terms it would yield the honor to some other state and the people shouted "Roosevelt." He denied he said Roosevelt would approve the plan to succeed Taft.

commodations are being provided for all who can get in. The speaking will begin about 8:30, and it is probable that Mayor James P. Smith will preside and Judge E. W. Bagby introduce the governor.

Governor Willson, who will speak at Princeton tomorrow afternoon, will arrive here at 6:10 on the Illinois Central. A delegation will go to Princeton at noon to hear him and escort the governor to Paducah. What his arrangements are after that will be disclosed when the governor arrives.

Bradley at Mayfield. Senator-elect W. O. Bradley will arrive here next Sunday, and probably will be the guest of Postmaster F. M. Fleisher over night. Barton, formerly master mechanic of the Illinois Central here, stated today that Mr. Barton has been appointed master mechanic of the Delaware and Lackawanna for the district between Hoboken, N. J., and Scranton, Pa., with headquarters at Hoboken. He has been master mechanic at the Burns shops, and the change means a large increase in salary.

Paducahans also will be interested in learning that Mr. McKellup, who was traveling engineer here, and has been master mechanic at Freeport, Ill., is made division master mechanic at Chicago.

Mr. Barton will enter on his new duties October 15, and his family will join him November 1.

Adrian, Ga., Oct. 5.—After seeing her lover shoot her father to death this morning, Miss Sallie Beasley, aged 13 years, continued her flight with the young man and, it is supposed, has been married to him. Beasley, the girl's father, had ordered young Swain to cease attentions to his daughter and had threatened to kill him if he persisted.

ELKS BASEBALL TEAM IS WINNER

Frosty Fingers in Evidence at League Park.

Score was 14 to 6 Against Knights of Columbus Team Sunday Afternoon.

FEATURES AND THE LINE-UP.

By good hitting the Elks' baseball team won a dull game yesterday afternoon from the team of the Knights of Columbus, by a score of 14 to 6. It was a benefit game for the Elks' team, and the purple and white rooters were out in force as well as a good band of rooters for the boys in blue. After the game started there was little doubt how the final score would be as the Elks began by piling up a good score, and kept hitting the ball until the fielders were tired of chasing 'em.

Sutton pitched a fair game for the Elks, while T. Hofflich started the game for the Knights but in the fifth inning his curves were bent by the batters and Wurth walked in from center garden to the pitcher's box. The pretty fielding feature of previous games were caught by this frost. Goodman smashed out a home run that brought forth a handful of applause. Wurth and Robertson each bagged a three-base drive, while McKenzie drew a two sacker. Lloyd and Wolff drew three hits out of the game, and Williams, Head, Robertson McGarrigal and T. Hofflich secured two safe hits. Sutton struck out six batters, while three Elks laid down their bats.

Robertson, the star short stop of the Elks, handled the big mit yesterday, and the way he kept base runners hugging the sacks was a caution. One runner was nipped at second station, and another was cut off at third base. Hofflich pitched a good game, but the Elks had on their batting rags and hit anything.

Before the game began a base running contest was held and Barringer won the honors as he made the sacks in 16 seconds, one second faster than any other players. The following are records of other players: J. Hugg, 16%; Sutton, 17%; Friedman, 17%; Lloyd, Williams, Goodman, McKenzie, 17%; L. Hugg, 17%; Kerr, 18%.

Score: R H E
Elks 14 12 5
Knights of Columbus 6 7 9

The line-ups: Elks—Robertson, c; Sutton, p; Lloyd, 1b; Goodman, 2b; Friedman, 3b; Barringer, ss; Wolff, lf; Williams, cf, and Head rf. Knights of Columbus—Wurth, cf, and p; McKenzie, lf; Kerr, ss; McGarrigal, rf; O. Hofflich, 2b; Theobald, 1b; T. Hofflich, p and cf; Anderson, c; L. Hugg, 3b.

Segenfelders at Brookport.

The J. P. Segenfelder baseball team of Paducah, and the Brookport ball team played yesterday afternoon at Brookport. The Paducah team won by a score of 4 to 2. Chicago, Oct. 5.—Pittsburg was eliminated from the National League pennant race when Chicago scored a 5 to 2 victory before a crowd which was declared to be the largest which ever paid to see a game of baseball in the world. Yesterday's game was the final one of the season for Chicago and Pittsburg, while New York has three more to play with Boston.

If one of these games is not played by reason of weather or for other cause, or if Boston wins one, the pennant will go to Chicago for the third consecutive year. By winning all three New York will exactly equal Chicago's percentage of .641. Chicago leads the league with 641; Pittsburg second with 636, and New York who did not play, third, with 633.

The story of the game is a simple one. Chicago garnered 12 hits of Willis and Camnitz while Brown allowed Pittsburg but seven.

The contest was evenly waged throughout. The umpires' decisions were questioned only once and this in an orderly fashion, despite the intense suppressed excitement under which the players worked. President Murphy, of the Chicago club, announced that the paid attendance was 30,247. This, Mr. Murphy said, was the largest attendance ever present at a game of baseball in the United States and presumably in the world. It was nearly 4,000 larger than ever passed through the gates of the west side ball park before.

At Chicago.

Chicago, Oct. 5.—Chicago defeated Detroit 3 to 1 in the first of the series here, making it just possible for the local team to win the American league pennant. To do this, however, Chicago must win the two remaining games with Detroit while Cleveland must lose one game with St. Louis. By reason of the Cleveland-St. Louis tie today these teams still have three games to play. By winning all of them Cleveland would get the pennant, provided Detroit lost another game to Chicago. By winning one of the remaining two games from Chicago, Detroit will win in the event that Cleveland drops two games to St. Louis.

President Comiskey said that the attendance was the largest that has ever been within the south side grounds.

The victory for Chicago is remarkable in that Chicago scored all her three runs in the first inning without even the semblance of a hit. In fact Chicago made but one hit during the game. Ground rules were established but the scant hitting did not require its application. The game was a pitchers' battle between White, of Chicago, and Killian, of Detroit, who let the victors down with one hit, but lost the game as a result of bases on balls and errors behind him.

A large silver loving cup was presented to Manager Jones on his first appearance at the plate.

SHAKESPEARE

WILL BE OPENING ATTRACTION AT KENTUCKY.

May Stewart Presented in Musical
Version of "As You Like It."
Tonight.

An engagement of unusual interest to the theater-goers of Paducah, that of May Stewart and her excellent company at the Kentucky tonight, in Shakespeare's comedy "As You Like It."

Miss Stewart is a young woman who has been starring for several years in such roles as Julia, Juliet, Portia, Parthenia and Rosalind, and has won the highest praise from both press and public wherever she has appeared. So pronounced have been her successes that she is considered by many critics as one of the most promising legitimate stars of the day.

Arthur Grissom, editor of the Smart Set, New York, says: "Miss Stewart possesses grace, beauty and power, all three in the highest degree. She has displayed such marked talent that she has become a genuine favorite."

There isn't much meat on the bone of contention.

A MAN IS KNOWN BY THE COMPANY HE KEEPS

William H. Taft, Republican Candidate for President, and Charles E. Hughes, Governor of New York, at the Meeting of the Advisory Committee of the Prison Ship Martyrs Association, Brooklyn, N. Y.

William J. Bryan, Democratic Candidate for President Greeting Charles F. Murphy, the Tammany Boss, in the Railroad Station in Lincoln.

William H. Taft to Laboring Man.

Commenting on Taft's speeches and his trip through the great north, Raymond, the well known correspondent of the Chicago Tribune, says:

Some men have been affected by the absurd campaign slander that Mr. Taft said at some mysterious time and place that a dollar a day was enough for any laboring man. I have heard that same remark attributed to public men of one party or the other ever since my boyhood. Judge Taft went out of his way to deny this silly story, plainly saying that the man who made the statement was a liar, and the man who believed it was a fool.

I am satisfied that the injunction business is the only thing in fact which is hurting Judge Taft among the railroad men. He explains it clearly from a lawyer's standpoint, but the trouble is the men do not understand the technicalities involved. All they know is that Judge Taft when on the bench enjoined T. M. Arthur, the much loved head of the locomotive engineers' organization, from enforcing a secondary boycott.

Mr. Taft explains in his speeches patiently and with manifest earnestness that he never issued an injunction which the law did not compel him to issue, and that he himself in all of his decisions carefully guarded the right of the laboring man to strike, to induce others to strike, to raise money to support a strike and to combine for their own interests in any way which did not involve injury to person or property, and which did not undertake to punish an innocent third party.

Listening to these explanations of Mr. Taft it is hard to understand that any intelligent workman would fail to see the truth of his position, especially in view of the splendid record of the Roosevelt administration, of which Mr. Taft was such an important part, in the passage of labor legislation. In spite of this fact, many Republican laboring men, especially on the railroad lines, are blinded by following Gompers into the Democratic camp. They are the class of men who are honest enough, but who take their facts second hand and never take trouble to investigate.

In his South Omaha speech, Mr. Taft, after reviewing the labor decisions he had rendered, made this conclusion:

"That is not all. I laid down the rule that labor not only had the right to unite but that it ought to unite in order to meet capital on a level, that it had a right to appoint officers; that it had a right to raise funds with which to sustain strikes; that strikes could not be enjoined; that strikes had the right to leave the employ of their employers in concert if they chose; that they had the right to withdraw from association with those with whom they had controversies; that they had the right to induce all their competitors, all their fellow union men, to withdraw from such association; but that they did not have the right to injure the property of their employers or declare a secondary boycott against them."

Chains He Has Helped Unions. "Those decisions I claim have been the magna charta of trades unionism ever since. The railway orders used that decision in a case before Judge Adams against the Gould roads, in which an injunction was issued forbidding them to follow the directions of their chiefs. They went into the court and cited my case and Judge Adams withdrew his injunction. The same thing happened in Cincinnati under Judge Thompson in a similar case with respect to the typographical union."

"I have not decided all my cases in labor businesses. I have had also to run up against corporations. As one of the court I wrote the opinion in the first important anti-trust case decided, and it laid down the principles upon which all the anti-trust prosecutions are now conducted."

"I am not apologizing for anything

BRYAN CORDIAL, MURPHY COLD, ON MEETING.

Tammany Leader, Unsmiling, Expressionless, Says Hardly a Word in Response to Candidate's Exuberancy, but is Forced by Nebraskan to Pose for Handshaking Photograph.

MR. CONNERS WILL CARRY NEW YORK FOR BRYAN.

"If We Don't I Vow I Will Never Shake Your Hand Again," Says "Fingy"—New York Delegation Shows Little Enthusiasm—The Candidate Repeats: "Let the People Rule"—His Followers' Figures.

Lincoln, Neb., July 12.—William Jennings Bryan and Charles F. Murphy clasped hands here today before a battery of cameras and under the eyes of cheering crowds. The Tammany leader, accompanied by Louis Blum, Francis Burton Harrison, Mayor Lathrop, Francis Thayer, Robert E. Lane and Daniel C. Mahan, passed through Lincoln somewhat bound at a point this afternoon.

Murphy cut short the press of the crowd and Mr. Bryan was at the depot in half an hour. The candidate drove down from Fairview behind a pair of thoroughbreds, the gift of Kentucky admirers, with Secretary Stone beside him and Mrs. Bryan on the back seat. It was the hottest day of the season with a blistering sun and stifling air. But the matter and business of Fairview were in their hands. A lone night's rest had done wonders for them.

POLITICS CAUSES SOME UNCERTAINTY

Henry Clews Thinks Election Doubts in the Way.

Otherwise the Market is in Fairly Satisfactory Condition Now.

EUROPE FEELS A COLLAPSE.

(Special.)

New York, Oct. 5.—The fear that additional political scares may happen during the next two or three weeks deters the big operators from making large commitments. Very soon calculations as to results can be more safely made, and then the market in all probability will begin to discount the result more earnestly. Just now the political situation is so confused by conflicting currents, local issues and personal recrimination, that confidence in the outcome is not as strong as it was. Inertia is not confined to the stock market, since general business is also holding back and as soon as the election outlook is settled more activity may be looked for in both industry and commerce. It is not to be expected that politics will have any very serious or permanent effect upon trade movements or prices, because actual consumption is not materially affected by such circumstances, and orders held back pending uncertainty will accumulate and accentuate activity later on. History shows that the effect of a presidential campaign upon business has always been more sentimental than actual.

Outside of politics the market is in a fairly satisfactory condition. If money continues cheap stocks are not excessively high; if on the other hand money hardens to any considerable extent security values would of course be adversely affected. Much depends therefore on the course of the money market. Of late there has been some hardening of rates, owing to demands of the interior for crop moving purposes. It should be remembered that our crops of wheat and corn are larger than last year, and that the high prices of all agricultural products necessitate the employment of more money in their marketing. There is also a prospect of good business throughout the grain belt where the panic has fortunately been but slightly felt. In west, northwest and Pacific states, therefore, there should be a good demand for money during the next three months at least. In the south, the condition is somewhat different. The outlook is for a fair cotton crop, say 13,000,000 bales, but the price is 20 per cent lower than a year ago, and the chances are that demands on the banks for crop moving purposes will be less urgent than a year ago. Moreover, the south has felt the panic more than the west; her cotton mills are much depressed, and with a lessened consumptive demand for her chief staple the south can hardly be expected to be as optimistic as the more fortunate farmers of the west. It is the east, however, which has felt and still feels the panic with greatest severity. In this section industrial interests are vastly more important than the agricultural, and as these have been intimately affected by the panic it is natural that depression should be greatest on this side of the Alleghenies. The continued comparative inactivity of business in the eastern cities of course materially lessens the merchantile demand for money. Funds have consequently accumulated to an unusual degree; and there being no efficient means of contraction in our currency system, idle money has gone into speculation and produced a degree of more or less unwelcome inflation. The late drop of 5 to 20 points in the active stocks somewhat minimized this danger; but the latter will always remain as long as there is an excessive surplus of idle funds. After the election there should be some improvement in business which would serve to create a better demand for money, and if speculation revives that too will have to be taken into account. All things considered, therefore, it looks as if the lowest rates in money had been reached; and that, while cheap money might be expected for some time to come, the tendency would be rather toward firmer rates.

Dividends.

So long as no material change takes place in the money market and present dividend rates are maintained, many stocks will not look dear at their present price. As to the chances of maintaining dividends the outlook is not entirely satisfactory. A few reductions have taken place and a few others may follow. Thus far the railroads by means of strenuous economies have avoided any radical cuts in dividends; but such economies have been pushed to the limit by deferring repairs and outlays that must now be met, and unless revenue begins to increase dividends must be further cut. Fortunately, however, the outlook in this respect is steadily improving. Losses in earnings are steadily declining, and net results often prove better than expected. Five months ago 413,000 cars were idle, or nearly 20 per cent of the whole. Today less than 173,000 cars, or 8 per cent, are idle, and after election this percentage will be still further reduced irrespective of who is elected. The railroad outlook, consequently, is steadily improving, especially in the west, and were it not for the increased obligations which many roads recently assumed there would be little need for the present movement to advance rates which is reviving public hostility.

It is now almost a year since the panic occurred. Since then the collapse which began here, owing to the breakdown of credit, has extended throughout the world, as a result of the universal exhaustion of capital. Recovery has made splendid headway, vastly more than could have been expected, but it is not yet complete. Liquidation did its beneficent work in eliminating weak spots and leaving the financial situation much stronger and sounder than before; so we may confidently look forward to increasing activity in nearly all lines of business, the chief obstacle to a full resumption being the continued high cost of production. Neither commodities nor wages have yet undergone that readjustment which has followed all previous panics; combinations of various kinds or actual scarcity tend to delay reaction in this respect. It is plain that prices were abnormally high in 1907, and it is still a problem for time to settle as to whether they will decline to more normal figures or continue on the high level for an indefinite period.

The technical situation of the stock market is fairly favorable. It is noticeable that there is little selling on either long or short account, and that on all pronounced declines there is good buying. The market is high rather than low, yet has a good undertone of confidence and seems more responsive to good news than to bad. Holders of securities seem pretty well satisfied that the worst has been seen and that affairs are more likely to improve than to retrograde. Under such conditions any serious break is impossible. Europe is particularly anxious to see the United States adopt a sound currency system, and this is unfortunately a consideration that impresses itself but slightly

If that Denver crowd squeezed Judge Taft, we should like to know what it did to individuals of ordinary size, standing near him.

We detect in Editor James Lemon's sympathy with Benton over his recent tragedies, just a trace of malicious delight that none of the parties were from Graves county.

ST. MARY'S ACADEMY.
 The semi-centenary of the St. Mary's Academy, which will be celebrated next week, is of interest to all Paducahans. The parochial school with its 300 pupils co-ordinates with our public schools, and many of the city's best citizens recall school days spent within the walls of the old building. Paducah's educational institutions should be fostered and encouraged by popular interest. Bye and bye this may become the educational center of a wide section. The claim to that proud title has not yet been pre-empted by any city within a radius of more than one hundred miles. It is by encouraging what we have that greater attainments are made possible. Paducah is proud of St. Mary's, and its history. May St. Mary's grow in power for good.

A FOOLHARDY CANDIDATE.
 The Republican boys in the trenches are having a hard time this year. In the first place they are opposed by an old campaigner, injured in all the arts of warfare on the stump, profiting by the experiences of two fights for the presidency topped with eight years of contemplation, observation and preparation. On their own side they have been kept on a nerve strain for four years by a precedent-breaking president, who has ignored all the time-honored political traditions, and by a stubborn candidate, who refuses all their efforts to effect compromises with hostile agencies. Their apprehension on account of the unguarded actions of their leaders, is intensified by a pendency of war, is intensified by a pendency of war, is intensified by a pendency of war.

President Roosevelt immediately upon his inauguration set about to alienate all those interests, which have heretofore been contributing to both national campaign funds, and the vigor of his prosecution of the Standard Oil, rebating railroads and western land thieves has driven them and their allies from the party. Then when he learned that E. H. Harriman had contributed to the 1904 fund he compelled restitution and the manner in which he and Judge Taft and Governor Hughes, of New York, opposed corporation contributions to campaign funds, decided eastern magnates to cut off the "yellow dog" appropriations.

Then President Roosevelt quarreled with senators representing interests and expelled thrifty executive officials. He had the temerity to show active interest in selecting a successor, who he knew would execute policies just now under way, and this aroused a cry of executive interference.

The candidate doesn't appear to possess any more political sense. Judge Taft while on the bench held to the law as he found it, regardless of parties, and that made him a bad candidate, some thought. How little judgment he has shown by his Akron, O., speech after his name was mentioned in connection with the presidency. His own state was in the midst of a bitter political fight, and he denounced "Boss" Cox, of Cincinnati, a denunciation that carried to defeat the Republican state ticket then weighted with Cox men. Ohio "yellow dog" Republicans have never yet forgiven Taft for it. That wasn't enough. Foraker was against his nomination, threatening a divided delegation from his native state, something fatal to any candidate's chances. The state committee patched up a compromise scheme. Taft was asked if he would consent for the state committee to name him as presidential choice and Foraker as choice for senator in the same resolution. What did the simpleton reply?—That he "did not desire the presidency if it must be obtained by compromise" with a man, who had opposed every principle and policy he and the administration represented. The result was a breach in Ohio that is not healed and will not be, apparently, with the consent of Taft, who is going about the country smiling genially on his countrymen and preaching those doctrines he has always adhered to, expecting the people to elect him, whether he makes up with Foraker or not.

Ordinarily a presidential candidate is kept in where he cannot expose himself to mistakes until time for the campaign; but with foolhardy disregard for all precedent, Taft, who was called from the bench to undertake the introduction of legal reforms and civil government in the revolution ridden Philippines, was sent to settle the delicate Friar land disputes; then to bring order in Cuba; then to put the Panama job on a business basis; and then on the mission of peace with the orient, in addition to the details of his war portfolio, which is the most responsible in the cabinet since the colonial burden is added to it. The position, by the way, is ably filled now by that gallant Tennesseean and Confederate veteran, General Wright.

The "boys in the trenches" cannot be blamed for being nervous with a "man with a record" for a candidate, the enemy of monopolists and campaign contributors, too silly to make up with a political foe, because it would be "a compromise of principle."

SENSIBLE VIEW OF LABOR VOTE.

There seems to be a disagreement, fundamentally, between Mr. Gompers, president, and Mr. James Duncan first vice-president of the American Federation of Labor, says the Chattanooga Times (Dem.). Mr. Gompers advises union laborers that it is their duty to vote for Mr. Bryan, and Mr. Duncan declares in a printed statement that the labor movement is entirely independent of and aside from political parties. Pursuing this idea Mr. Duncan says:

"The labor movement advises study of the different subjects and principles of the great political parties, and admonishes each organized worker who is a citizen and voter (and all should qualify as fully as possible in both ways) to cast his vote on election day in strict accordance with his conscience as to what would be the best for the whole people."
 That is the patriotic as well as the rational and practical view most laboring men of intelligence and self-respect have of the question. That which is good for the working people and not hurtful or unduly exacting upon the general public labor has a right to expect, and it may well suspect that man or group of men—either in business or politics—who propose to do for the movement what its beneficiaries have no right to expect or demand, may well be suspected of insincerity and a purpose to deceive. In other words the "labor vote," so-called, must be classed with all other kinds of loyal "voters" as good citizens seeking only such benefits and favors from government as may properly and reasonably come of benefits and favors to the whole people. Special favors and special benefits are distinctly antagonistic to the spirit of the republic. The rights of every citizen are guaranteed under the constitution and the balance of the country as well as union labor has a right to demand the exact fulfillment of that guarantee from any party whose representatives may be in control of the government.

Mr. Duncan has the right view of the duties of the citizen—for after all the true American must first be a patriotic citizen before he is a union man; for if he were not and all men were like him there would and could be no such thing as protected organized labor. Mr. Gompers' proposal for herding the labor vote, just as the Republicans used to corral the negroes, is repulsive, of course, to the genuine friend of the working man, and is therefore impossible.

AMERICANS OPTIMISTIC.

English Journal Wishes Englishmen Were As Much So.

The Americans as a nation are optimists. It may be owing to the immense extent of their territory, the absence of dangerous neighbors on the frontiers or to their enjoyment of acknowledged though not quite real equality, or possibly to the self-confidence born of 200 years of continuous and successful effort, or it may even be owing to some exhilarating quality of the atmosphere in which they live; but, at any rate, Americans at heart are all contented and cheerful men.

Collectively and individually they all believe that, however unpeasant may be the circumstance of the moment, they will in the end "muddle through" all come out the stronger for their trials. No one despaired when it seemed for a moment as if the union must be broken up, and no one quails now, though every foreign observer believes that the grand struggle between the "Haves" and the "Have-nots" which is to mark this century will be fought out first of all upon American soil. They will somehow find, they think, a preventive of that great danger in the principles of democracy.

They see their numbers continually increasing; they see the old world shrinking from any contest with their growing strength; they deny, or at least they do not recognize, that any moral change has passed over their millions, and they perceive, as they listen to their present President, that now, as in the great civil war, they will throw up out of the depths of their selective system adequate and trustworthy leaders.

In 1864 they found Abraham Lincoln and in 1908 they are listening—and was there ever so vast or so attentive an audience?—to Theodore Roosevelt. They wait, therefore, in the full confidence that however dark the path may momentarily appear, the way will open and they will emerge conscious not only of safety, but as their President says, in soldier-like phrase of "triumph."

A nation penetrated with that feeling cannot be beaten and we only wish that we saw more of it among the nations of Europe, and more especially in our own despondent land.—London Spectator.

American Weapon.

The revolver, by invention and use, is distinctly an American weapon. Samuel Colt of Hartford, Conn., invented it, and the cowboys of the west made it famous by their proficiency in its use. In 1836, when Colt, still a youth, patented his invention, a revolving multi-charge firearm was not, however, a new thing in the world. In the Tower of London is a revolving matchlock gun which was owned by Henry VIII. In 1525, in Flintlock days Elisha Collier, who lived awhile on Elliot street, Boston, invented a flintlock revolving cylinder pistol and rifle. In pill-box days Adam Humberger of Ohio, produced a revolving repeating pistol. And there were many others. But nevertheless Samuel Colt invented the revolver. In the first place, he probably never heard of a revolver, nor saw one before he made his wooden model. To that extent he originated the arm. And further, his ideas for the construction of the arm were the only practical ones that had been devised.—Army and Navy Life.

The Port of Missing Men.

By Meredith Nicholson,
 Author of "The House of a Thousand Candles."

The room was very still as the last words rang out. The old ambassador's gaze clung to Armitage. He stepped nearer, the perspiration breaking out upon his brow, and his lips trembled as he faltered:

"He would be king! He would be king!"

Then Armitage spoke sharply to Claiborne.

"That will do. The gentleman may retire now."

As Claiborne thrust Chauvenet out of the room Armitage turned to the little company, smiling.

"I am not Frederick Augustus, the son of the Archduke Karl," he said quietly, "nor did I ever pretend that I was except to lead those men on in their conspiracy. The cigarette case that caused so much trouble at Mr. Claiborne's supper party belongs to me. Here it is."

The old ambassador snatched it from him eagerly.

"This device, the falcon poised upon a silver helmet! You have much to explain, monsieur."

"It is the coat of arms of the house of Schomberg. The case belonged to Frederick Augustus, Karl's son, and this sword was his, and these orders, that cloak lying yonder—all were his. They were gifts from his father. And, believe me, my friends, I came by them honestly."

The baron bent over the table and spilled the orders from their silver box and scanned them eagerly. The colored ribbons, the glittering jewels, held the eyes of all. Many of them were the insignia of rare orders no longer conferred. There were the crown and pendant cross of the Invincible Knights of Zähringen; the white falcon upon a silver helmet swung from a ribbon of cloth of gold, the familiar device of the house of Schomberg; the gold Maltese cross of the Chevaliers of the Blessed Sacrament; the crossed swords above an iron crown of the Ancient Legion of Saint Michael and All Angels; and the full rigged ship pendant from triple anchors, the decoration of the rare Spanish order of the Star of the Seven Seas. Silence held the company as the ambassador's fine old hands touched one after another. It seemed to Shirley that these baubles again bound the new world, the familiar hills of home, the Virginia shores, to the wallowing caravels of Columbus.

The ambassador closed the silver box the better to examine the white falcon upon its lid. Then he swung about and confronted Armitage.

"Where is he, monsieur?" he asked, his voice sunk to a whisper, his eyes sweeping the doors and windows.

"The Archduke Karl is dead; his son, Frederick Augustus, whom these conspirators have imagined me to be—he, too, is dead."

"You are quite sure—you are quite sure, Mr. Armitage?"

"I am quite sure."

"That is not enough! We have a right to ask more than your word!"

"No, it is not enough," replied Armitage quietly. "Let me make my story brief. I need not recite the peculiarities of the archduke—his dislike of conventional society, his contempt for sham and pretense. After living a hermit life at one of the smallest and most obscure of the royal estates for several years he vanished utterly. That was fifteen years ago."

"Yes," he was met, quite mad," blurted the baron.

"That was the common impression, again his oldest son and went into exile. Conjectures as to his whereabouts have filled the newspapers sporadically ever since. He has been reported as appearing in the south seas, in India, in Australia, in various parts of this country. In truth, he came directly to America and established himself as a farmer in western Canada. His son was killed in an accident; the archduke died within the year."

Judge Claiborne bent forward in his chair as Armitage paused.

"What proof have you of this story, Mr. Armitage?"

"I am prepared for such a question, gentlemen. His identity I may establish by various documents which he gave me for the purpose. For greater security I locked them in a safety box of the Bronx Loan and Trust company in New York. To guard against accidents I named you jointly with myself as entitled to the contents of that box. Here is the key."

As he placed the slim bit of steel on the table and stepped back to his old position on the hearth they saw how white he was and that his hand shook, and Dick begged him to sit down.

"Yes, will you not be seated, monsieur?" said the baron kindly.

"No; I shall have finished in a moment. The archduke gave those documents to me, and when I saw the paper that will explain much in the life of that unhappy gentleman, I contained a disclosure that might in certain emergencies be of very great value. I beg of you believe that he was not a fool and not a madman. He sought exile for reasons—for the reason that his son Francis, who has been plotting the murder of the new emperor-king, is not his son!"

"What?" roared the baron.

"It is as I have said. The faithlessness of his wife and not madness drove him into exile. He trusted that paper to me and swore me to carry it to Vienna if Francis ever got too near the throne. It is certified by half a dozen officials authorized to administer oaths in Canada, though they, of course, never knew the contents of the paper to which they swore him. He even carried it to New York and swore to it there before the consul general of Austria-Hungary in that city. There was a certain grim humor in him; he said he wished to have the affidavit bear the seal of his own country, and the consul general assumed that it was a document of mere commercial significance."

Meteor Coffee Percolator

Get the Real Flavor from your Coffee

The fact that sometimes your coffee is better than others, shows that something is wrong with the process of making and that some flavor-destroying element is present in greater or smaller quantities.

The Manning-Bowman "Meteor" Coffee Percolator

gives you the Real Flavor from your coffee. The bitter injurious principle is entirely eliminated, making the coffee always the same—always delicious, clear and fragrant. The hot water is forced up through the central tube by the automatic circulation process and filtering through the grounds extracts all the good of the coffee, leaving the tannic acid and bitter properties in the grounds above the liquid. Use one-third less coffee than by other methods, for there is no waste.

HASKELL EXPOSE CAUSES TROUBLE IN POLITICAL AIR

New York, Oct. 5. (Special.)—Campaign developments have come thick and fast within the last few days. The Bryan balloon is in a state of collapse, and in order to keep it up at all the Haskell ballast had to be thrown over. The Oklahoma governor had become an issue in the campaign without anything now but vehement condemnation for him.

Reputed by every one connected with Democratic National headquarters except Bryan himself, and with obvious barriers placed by Bryan to avoid a sought meeting with the Democratic candidate, in which Haskell at the last hour hoped to palliate the Oklahoma man at bay had to resign. The whirlwind of public opinion had found him in his cyclone cellar of bank guarantee.

Distillation of opinion about Democratic and Republican headquarters is that Mr. Bryan has only to base himself for Haskell. Government in Oklahoma and the personality of its governor were inspirations that gave the Democratic candidate for president his material for campaigning.

The gas was bad and the balloon was sagging badly.

The thought uppermost in the minds of Democrats and Republicans alike is whether Mr. Bryan will not be even at this late stage promulgating new issues that have not the Haskell brand. Piping on the old songs will not seem like the same music to the ears of his hearers for the linnet has lost his note.

The situation, perhaps, would not be so bad no; the disaster so great had not Mr. Bryan known his Haskell. He was told all about "him" long ago. Under the circumstances it is hard to assume that the mystery of the $300,000 contribution to the Democratic campaign fund and the evinced ability of Haskell as treasurer of the fund to provide the sinews of war made it easier to hope that he would not be found out.

Bryan's Campaign At a Standstill.
 Consensus of opinion is that the Presidential campaign is just where it was before the Nebraska began his speech-making tour. Mr. Taft's election was as sure as the return of the equinox. Bryan's remarkable adroitness as a campaigner and the unprecedented vigor with which he pushed his advocacy attracted attention and aroused discussion. It was all merely a disturbance of the atmosphere and nothing in it traceable to the laws of cause and effect, the seed time and harvest. There was really very little to it all in results, merely a big noise.

Now that the expose has come Bryan's campaigning has come to an abrupt standstill. It is felt that it will be next to impossible to get it going again and if it does it will never attain any momentum.

The power behind it has gone forever. Confidence in Mr. Bryan has been rudely shaken, and there is no one among his friends who has the temerity to hope that it can be restored.

Mr. Haskell was seeking notoriety and light. He is the most conspicuous object in American politics today. It is easy to foresee that in future years when Democratic defeat in 1908 is being explained over and over again, the name of Haskell will be behind the Haskell scapegoat.

Secretary Root on Roosevelt's Administration.

In every department of the national government since the decisive approval of Republican administration given in the great majorities four years ago there has been practical effectiveness of action which should be highly satisfactory to all the people of the country who really care about having the government business well and creditably done.

Must Not Smoke in the Theater.
 Paul Monnet appeared at Haystack recently as the missionary bishop in "Le Duel," which we saw in New York last year with Ellen Plympton and Otis Skinner. As he lighted a cigar at the wings an officer of the fire brigade informed him that he must not smoke in the theater.

"But it is in the play," explained M. Monnet: "I am smoking as I go on and then I throw my cigar on the stage." "Very well," replied the officer. So M. Monnet made his entrance as usual, but following him were two firemen, one of them with a bucket of water and the other with a huge sponge. The audience, appreciating the situation, roared and applauded with delight, and M. Monnet carefully deposited his cigar in the bucket and wiped his fingers on the sponge before proceeding with the dialogue. ### A Folding Boat.

A native of Serbia named Merchep has devised what he terms "a boat in a knapsack" for army purposes. The boat is composed of linen, rendered impermeable by a coating of rubber, and is provided with oars, which fold into each other to the size of an ordinary walking stick, and a cork seat, which also serves to keep it taut when open.
The model can accommodate one person only, but larger ones may be made on the same plan for the conveyance of troops and baggage when crossing rivers. The invention has been tried on the Seine by French naval experts and by the Russian attaché, who speaks of it in the high terms and hopes to have it introduced into the Russian army.

Roam Trade.

Home trade! Home trade!
It's better for than roam trade.
So keep your dollars in the town.
Lend them, spend them,
But never, never send them
Around the world to wander up and down.

The celebrated American poet who penned those immortal lines might have added a prose footnote to the effect that roam trade will cease when home trade makes the same effort to get business as roam trade makes. In other words, will the home merchant advertise adequately in the home paper.

Did THAT ever occur to you?

Prezied Finance.

"That's a counterfeit dollar, lady, or at least I think it is," the conductor told an East Side woman, as he handed the coin back to her. Of course, she was indignant, but she handed him a paper dollar and didn't argue.

Now, by some strange psychological process the woman figured it out that so long as she wasn't absolutely certain about the dollar being a bad one, there was no harm in passing it along. Even the conductor hadn't been real sure about its being a bum dollar. Still, for fear it might be bad, she didn't like to go to the bank and ask the man. She knew her conscience might act up when it came to using a dollar that she knew was shoddy. Just to get the thing off her mind, she went to the grocery and bought what she wanted for dinner. It came to $1.25. She laid down a bill and the phony dollar and took 75c change.

Then she went home chuckling to think that she wasn't stuck for that dollar. When she opened up her basket of groceries she found a note as follows:

"Dear Madam—You gave us $2 instead of a $1 bill in paying for your groceries. We are returning herewith the $1 due you."

And the dollar they returned was the phony dollar—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

H. F. Foster was finally excused as a member of the grand jury and J. R. Leigh substituted.

Thomas Donaldson was excused from further service on the petit jury and J. R. Watson substituted.

The $200 in money deposited as bail for H. E. Hubbard was ordered paid into the state treasury fund.

Walter Richardson, colored, charged with detaining a 13-year-old negro girl against her will, was acquitted and dismissed from custody.

A verdict of not guilty was returned in the case against John Thompson for having intercourse with Annie Augustus, an 8-year-old girl. The evidence against Thompson was conflicting and tended to show that another man was guilty of the crime.

Marshall Hill is on trial this afternoon for obtaining money by false pretenses.

PADUCAH WINS

TEAM DEFEATS METROPOLIS BASEBALL TEAM.

Game Across River Results 9 to 5—Lee Hart Pitches Great Ball.

Before a large crowd at Metropolis yesterday afternoon Paducah won from the Metropolis baseball team by a score of 9 to 5. The bright speck in the game was Lee Hart, the south paw, who filled in center garden, as out of five times at bat he got five hits, one being a home run. Ranyan twirled for Paducah and let the visitors down with three hits and these were presented in the seventh inning. Before this round the Metropolis boys failed to get a hit or run, but Paducah eased up to make the crowd roar. Dye, the Three I leaguer, pitched for Metropolis, but Paducah had on her batting clothes and swatted out 12 hits.

George Block caught the twisters for Paducah, while Doyle was behind the bat for Metropolis. Hart's batting was the feature, but Block, Porteous, Brown and Eddie Brabie got a two-base hit apiece. Porteous secured a two-sacker with the bases full.

The score was:
Paducah..... 9 12 6
Metropolis..... 5 3 7

President Roosevelt on Taft.

If elected, he has shown by his deeds that he will be president of his class, but of the people as a whole; he can be trusted to stand stoutly against the two real enemies of our democracy—against the man who places one class over another and against the man who in the interest of another class would secure business prosperity by sacrificing every right of the working people.

Glimpse of Costa Rica.

At an elevation of 5,000 feet Cartago, once the capital of the country, is reached. There the tourist finds excellent shops, well stocked with both American and French goods. The houses are nearly all only one story, with the patio in the center. The streets are paved, but there is no sewerage or side gutters, and the water runs through the center of the street. There are no alleys or exits from the rear, and the front door is used for all purposes. Frequently a man will lead his horse in and out by the entrance used by the family. Buzzards are the scavengers of the country, and as the penalty for killing one is a heavy fine they are quite tame. The old cemetery, with its "oven" vaults, is especially interesting.

Costa Rica vegetables are grown the year round, and the tables of the Panama Canal employees are supplied from there. Six or eight fresh vegetables are found on the tables of the residents any day in the year. Although a tropical country, the mountain air of the interior is bracing, and this in a measure accounts for the comparative industry of the tiller of the soil. Next to banana raising, coffee plays the most prominent part in the exports of the country. The Costa Rica is a large consumer of this beverage. The coffee served tasted so different from ours that I asked a young matron at San Jose for her recipe. "Use sufficient coffee," she said, "not less than two ounces to a pint of water. Warm your coffee pot, put the coffee into it, boil the water and pour the boiling water on the coffee, and the thing is done. If the coffee itself is boiled the aroma is dissipated and the beverage spoiled. Just let it come to a boil." Then she added: "You Americans have your coffee too weak. Make it strong and use three-fourths milk if necessary; that is better than to use half milk and half coffee."—Leslie's Weekly.

"No, my dear, my husband's legs. He heard the noise too."—Everybody's Magazine.

Conservation League of America.

Chicago, Ill., Oct. 5.—The final organization of the Conservation League of America, of which President Roosevelt is honorary president and William J. Bryan and William H. Taft, honorary vice-presidents, has been completed by the appointment of John Mitchell, late head of the Union Mine Workers of America, and Gustav H. Schwab, of New York, president of the National Council of Commerce, as vice-presidents of the league. Walter L. Fisher, of this city, is active president.

The membership of the league now definitely includes the following organizations:

The American Civil association.
The American Federation of Labor.
The American Forestry association.
The American Railway association.
Farmers' National congress.
Interstate Inland Waterway.
Interstate Mississippi river improvement and levee association.
Lakes-to-the-Gulf Deep Waterways association.

Mining Congress of America.
Missouri Valley Improvement association.
National Association of Real Estate exchanges.

National Civic Federation.
National Geographic society.
National Fire Protection association.

National Rivers and Harbors congress.
Ohio Valley Improvement association.

Upper Mississippi river improvement association.

In addition to these prominent organizations, the league announced that the presidents of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers, the American Institute of Mining Engineers, the National Drainage congress, and the United Mine Workers of America have personally approved of the league, and these organizations are expected to unite with it as soon as formal action can be taken by their executive boards. Similar action is anticipated from other leading organizations, such as the National Irrigation congress, which is now in session at Albuquerque, N. M.

The following formal statement of purposes of the league was issued by President Fisher:

"The Conservation League of America is an organized effort to secure the effective co-operation of the people for the Conservation movement. It is the concrete expression of a dominant and increasing public sentiment. Conservation does not mean merely the intelligent use and preservation of the national forests as permanent sources of national wealth. It includes, as well, the reclamation of overflowed and swamp lands; the use and disposition of the public domain, especially in connection with grazing and with mining and power development; the prevention of mineral waste, and the development and use, both for navigation and for power, not only of the great waterways of the country, but also of the source streams upon which those waterways depend.

"The league presents to candidates for congress and the state legislature a statement of principles that is purposely confined to broad and general principles about which there should be entire agreement among all whom selfish or special interests do not control, and yet which will be useful as tests of the wisdom and disinterestedness of future legislative or administrative action. They emphasize the vigorous development and use of our natural resources quite as much as their preservation from destruction or waste; but they insist that wise development should foresee and prevent either destruction or waste, and should effectively preserve the rights and interests of future generations.

"The conservation league is absolutely non-partisan, both politically and industrially. It does not attempt to define the respective functions of the nation and of the states upon this question. It insists upon the effective co-operation of state and nation to cover the entire field of the protection and development of our natural resources. It seeks to bring to this co-operation the active practical support of an intelligent and disinterested citizenship."

Mr. Harden is right; it's the best of all medicines also for weakness, lame back and all run down conditions. Best too for chills and malaria. Sold under guarantee at all druggists. 50c.

PRINCE IS KING OF ALL GAMBLERS

Ruler of Monaco Draws Immense Revenues from Roulette

Domain is So Small That He Can Watch Every Department and See That Things Go Right.

IS SAID TO BE A MODEL RULER

The Prince of Monaco, occupant of the smallest throne in the world, is one of the most interesting notables of European court life. Though he draws his revenues largely from the gambling syndicate that controls Monte Carlo, he expends his wealth in furthering scientific knowledge, and the national museum which he is having built and which is now almost on the point of completion, will be one of the most complete institutions of its kind in existence. And, more than this, a great part of the treasures it is to contain have been gathered by the Prince, in his own boat, from every quarter of the marine world. For more than twenty years he has been engaged in making the collections, and in publishing the results of his discoveries. From Stockholm in the north to the ice barrier of the southern seas the Prince has carried his quest, and to assist in capturing his prizes of the sea, he has invented many curious devices that seize and convey to the surface the fragile denizens of the deep without injuring them.

Apart from all this, the Prince is a model ruler in his little state. No one there knows what money troubles are. The land is so fruitful that it yields fine crops. If any attention whatever is given to the tilling of the soil, and for those who are too lazy to win a livelihood from the earth, visitors from all countries of the world, pleasure seekers, who troop to Monte Carlo with swelling pocket-books, are willing to spend their cash with a prodigality unequalled anywhere else in the world.

The smallness of the domain enables the Prince to watch every detail of its administration. Every street must be clean and spotless, and the derelict workman is called upon to explain to the despot why the work has been so poorly done.

No native is allowed to play at the casino. Let foreigners come and spend their wealth liberally if they will; that is their own matter, but the Prince will not have the poor of his kingdom dropping sums they cannot afford with the inevitable harvest of discontent, misery and tragedy.

For diversion, this curious ruler, who has the power of an Ivan the Terrible, but who lives more like a Herbert Spencer, sets out on his trips of sea exploration. In the six years between 1885 and 1891, he first attracted the notice of scientists by the discoveries he made on the Hironelle. Now he has a new and finer boat, especially equipped for the work, and named Princess Alice II. Like most other wealthy Europeans of scientific bent, the Prince is giving considerable attention to aerial navigation, and has had a number of dirigible airships, so called.

The palace in which lives this quite unusual monarch is almost as old as the venerable rocks on which it sits. It has been patched and gone over from century to century, and in its various parts it shows traces of a dozen types of architecture. But while all that is ancient has been studiously preserved in the exterior, the interior has every device for comfort that modern knowledge can suggest. The fittings are on a scale of elegance that rivals the finest palaces of Europe, and are modeled along the lines of the architecture of classic Versailles.

The palace contains about twenty-five suites of apartments, the poorest of which would be fit for the reception of any European potentate. The only portions of the building that are unostentatious are the private rooms of the Prince himself. His habits are very simple and Democratic, and his billiard and smoking rooms would be beyond the means of any man of average wealth.

The superb music room of the palace bespeaks the musical tastes of the Princess. She is a patron of music who recks nothing of cost. It was her liberality that secured the production of Isadore de Yara's "Messaline," an opera that gave Emma Calve a fine role a few years ago, but a work whose lack of melody permitted it only a short life in the United States.

Taking charge of the destinies of a bare 1,500 subjects has been child's play for the Prince, but it has given him a deep interest in the policies of statecraft. He has had a further chance to study and investigate by constant contact with the foremost diplomats of the world. Statesmen and rulers, nearly all of them at some stage in their careers set to Nice and Monaco, pleasure spots of the world, and through association with these Albert has become the cultivated expert on European politics.—Brooklyn Eagle.

Woman's Good Looks

depend, of course, very largely upon her health. If your health is bad, if you are weak, sick, miserable, and suffer from pain or other symptoms of womanly ailments, your face and general appearance will quickly show it, and nothing you can do will bring back your good looks, until you cure your female troubles.

The best advice to give you, for such a condition, is to "take Cardui."

This is the well-known woman's remedy, of which you have so often heard.

It is the medicine for you to try, whether you have just fallen sick or whether you have been long sick, and are hopeless of relief.

Cardui has succeeded so often, that you may safely expect it to benefit you.

Mrs. Sarah Avery, of Moark, Ark., writes: "I suffered with womanly troubles for two years, and nothing would help me until I took Cardui. Now I am well." Try it.

COLORED SCHOOL

WILL REQUIRE $400,000 TO ESTABLISH IT.

Already $310,000 Promised, Conditionally—Location Not Determined.

Winchester, Ky., Oct. 5.—Since the law was passed requiring a separation of the white and colored pupils in Berea college, only white pupils have been admitted to that school. For a while the college supported its students at other schools in the south, but this was found to be too expensive, and it was proposed to build a big colored school at some point in Kentucky, and the first meeting of a campaign to raise the money was held in the Broadway Colored Baptist church, of this city. President Frost, of Berea college, and Dr. James Bond raised $350. Other meetings will be held, and it is expected to raise $1,000 here.

The school will be on the plan of Booker Washington's school, and will start on a large scale, at least $400,000 being necessary to carry out the plans. Andrew Carnegie has pledged $200,000 to the fund and other pledges bring the amount up to $340,000. Fifty thousand dollars of this was pledged by a northern man on condition that $50,000 more be raised in Kentucky, and this campaign was inaugurated to raise this amount.

The school will not be located in any city, but it is proposed to purchase 1,000 acres of good land in a body, on which the school will be located. Two hundred thousand dollars will be set aside for the ground and buildings, and an equal amount for the endowment fund. The management of the school will be in the hands of the trustees of Berea college, for the present, at least, and a portion of the teaching force will be white and a portion colored.

The location has not been determined, but will be selected with a view to easy access from all parts of the state, and the colored people of Winchester are anxious to have it located near here, and think it the most desirable in the state.

Many a man imagines he's done something for the church when he buys a cushion for his pew.—Chicago News.

A Woman's Back

Has many aches and pains caused by weakness and falling, or other displacement, of the pelvic organs. Other symptoms of female weakness are frequent headache, dizziness, imaginary spots or dark spots floating before the eyes, gnawing sensation in stomach, dragging or bearing down in lower abdominal or pelvic region, disagreeable drains from pelvic organs, faint spells with general weakness. If any considerable number of the above symptoms are present there is no remedy that will give quicker relief or a more permanent cure than Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It has a record of over forty years of curing it is the most potent purifying tonic and strengthener now known to medical science. It is made of the glyceric extracts of native medicinal roots found in our forests and contains not a drop of alcohol or harmful, or habit-forming drugs. Its ingredients are all printed on the bottle wrapper and attested under oath as correct.

Every ingredient entering into "Favorite Prescription" has the written endorsement of the most eminent medical writers of all the several schools of practice—more valuable than any amount of non-professional testimonials—though the latter are not lacking, having been contributed voluntarily by grateful patients in numbers to exceed the endorsements given to any other medicine extant for the cure of woman's ills.

You cannot afford to accept any medicine of unknown composition as a substitute for this well proven remedy or known composition, even though the dealer may make a little more profit thereby. Your interest in regaining health is paramount to any selfish interest of his and it is an insult to your intelligence for him to try to palm off upon you a substitute. You know what you want and it is his business to supply the article called for.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets are the original "Little Liver Pills" first put up by old Dr. Pierce over forty years ago, much imitated but never equaled. Little sugar-coated granules—easy to take as candy.

TOBACCO NEWS

Paducah Sales.

One hundred and fifty-six hogsheads of tobacco were sold at the Paducah salesroom of the Planters' Protective association last week, the prices ranging from 7 to 12 cents. The purchases were made by Paducah brokers and the firm of Martin & Dunks, Louisville.

Reports from the district are that but little damage was done by frost to the growing crop, as the tobacco had been cut and housed in most instances. However, a few crops were in the field and practically ruined by the frost. It is said that the tobacco is curing up in fine shape and the quality of tobacco that will be on the market next year will be much better than the old crop. The order of the association managers prohibiting the offering of the new crop for sale until all of the old is disposed of probably will keep the new crop out of the market until next April, if not later.

Louisville Report.

Louisville, Oct. 5.—The new crops of dark and burley tobacco have been cut and housed under favorable circumstances, although in practically all sections rain is needed for curing. The local breaks this week appeared more animated than for several weeks. Sales were slightly larger than last week and prices in both classes of tobacco were well maintained. There was an especially good demand for burley, particularly for the color styles. There were sold during the week seven hogsheads of new burley ranging in price from $8.50 to $16.75. All of the new tobacco offered was well matured and in many cases the color was the best seen in years.

Dark leaf was generally stronger, but lugs were irregular. There were sampled during the week 400 hogsheads of burley belonging to the Society of Equity. Stocks in this market during the month of September decreased 1,093 hogsheads.

RAYMOND REPORTS ON WESTERN TRIP

Finds Farmers Satisfied With Conditions of Nation.

Taft May Lose Votes in Cities Because of Slack Trade, He Thinks.

NORTHWEST IS IN LINE.

"Raymond," of the Chicago Tribune, who has been touring the west, makes the following observations on political conditions:

"We have, as has been said, traversed a vast extent of territory. The Taft train started from Cincinnati and has pursued its course through the cities of Indianapolis, Chicago, Des Moines, St. Paul, Minneapolis, Fargo, Sioux City, Lincoln, Omaha, Denver, and Topeka. It has covered states which Mr. Bryan lost in 1896 and some which he won. It has run over the free silver track of 1896, the anti-imperialist burnt district of 1900, and the decadence of Democracy in the anti-militarism fight of 1904.

"Somewhere, somehow, unless all signs fall, this Taft expedition through the middle west, reaching to the base of the Rockies, should unearth the secret springs of action of the people and tell the story of their probable votes next November.

"Now as to the results of the observations made on the trip: Of Indiana I know nothing, as I joined the party at Chicago. Of the reception there the people of that great city know best. My own observation is that this was a vast success. Personally prejudiced observers with either political or financial objection to facts may have seen the other side, but all of the people of Chicago I have met have agreed with me that Taft made a great hit there.

La Follette's Action Significant.

"In Wisconsin there was probably less noisy enthusiasm than in the other states we have visited. The crowds were large enough, but they were somewhat passive. Part of this was due to the fact that Mr. Taft and those accompanying him on the trip had not fully warmed up to their work. The greeting of the Republican candidate by Senator La Follette was a significant thing in this state, and every leader in Wisconsin reports that the Republican majority is 'assured' on the national ticket because the faction fight has not extended in any way to the injury of Judge Taft. At the Allis-Chalmers works and in certain sections of Milwaukee there is a large socialist element, but it will draw more heavily from the Democrats than from the Republicans and the party leaders are not worried over the result in Wisconsin.

Iowa was bubbling over with the warmest kind of enthusiasm at every place we stopped. Clinton, Davenport, Burlington and Ottumwa turned out big crowds and Des Moines worked off a night demonstration such as is seldom extended to any candidate for political honors. We found still a great deal of bitterness between the two Republican factions in the state. Republicans of both sides were on the train, as were Governor Cummins and Judge Lacey, the progressive and standpat candidates for the senate. They all agreed that the coming of Mr. Taft had for the time being put an end to the faction fight. It will be renewed when the legislature meets, but the party as a whole is united in Iowa for the national ticket, but it is idle to class that state as even remotely doubtful.

UNTOLD INJURY.

To Paducah People, as It Is Elsewhere Throughout the Land.

Neglecting a bad back. Not trying to reach the cause. Brings untold injury to the human system.

Following in the wake of backache are urinary disorders, diabetes, Bright's disease.

Let a Paducah citizen tell of his cure.

T. G. Elder, of 1763 West Monroe street, Paducah, Ky., says: "Doan's Kidney Pills were used in my family about seven years ago with very satisfactory results. At that time they cured a case of kidney trouble of two years' standing, removing the pains from the back and strengthening the kidneys. I have often recommended them to others, who have used them with good results. I purchased them from DuBois, Son & Co.'s drug store."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

Minnesota and Burke in North Dakota have a good fighting chance for re-election. I don't think the national ticket is involved in either of these states. The Republicans in Minnesota hope to beat Johnson, but admit it will take hard work to bring in Jacobson, his Republican opponent, although the two men, of course, will divide the Scandinavian vote. The leaders in Minnesota predict anywhere from 30,000 to 50,000 majority.

North Dakota is similarly safe for the national ticket, and the demonstration at Fargo was one of the most remarkable things in the whole trip considering the size of the town. Throughout South Dakota and Nebraska the prosperity of the farmer is the keynote to Taft's prospects. They have had enormous crops and have realized large prices for them. South Dakota is surely Republican.

Some Defection in Nebraska.

In Nebraska there are more signs of defection among the railroad element, who have been led away from Taft by Gompers' charges that the Republican candidate is unfair to labor. This is being offset by the Democratic farmers, who do not want anything to do to interfere with the present prosperity period. The outlook is, therefore, for a decreased Republican vote in the cities, including Lincoln. Mr. Bryan's home, and heavy Republican majorities in all the farm and district.

"It would take a shrewd man to make a guess as to the outlook in Colorado. Mr. Taft was warmly received at Cheyenne, Wyo., and Denver, the capital of Colorado. Wyoming, of course, is certainly Republican on the national ticket. Colorado is probably the enemy's country—or at least it was once and it may be again. It has been going Republican regularly enough of late, but there are disturbing elements in the silver state which make the Republican managers uneasy.

Labor Element a Factor.

There is a strong union labor element in Colorado, and the attitude of the miners in the big diggings is not yet sufficiently understood. Mr. Taft made an excellent impression in Denver, and the Republican managers in the state and in the national committee do not admit that there is any possibility of losing, but unprejudiced observers in Denver and elsewhere say that Colorado is fighting ground.

From this state, as well as from Nebraska, the early returns are likely to be unfavorable for the Republicans, because the defection is in the large cities, and the railroad centers, which are easily reached by telegraph. The Republican vote will depend largely on the activity of the farmers, and cattle growers and they are so scattered that the actual result in both of these states may be in doubt the morning after the election.

The Remedy That Does.

"Dr. King's New Discovery is the remedy that does the healing others promise but fail to perform," says Mrs. E. R. Pierson, of Auburn Centre, Pa. "It is curing me of throat and lung trouble of long standing, that other treatments relieved only temporarily. New Discovery is doing me so much good that I feel confident its continued use for a reasonable length of time will restore me to perfect health." This renowned cough and cold remedy and throat and lung healer is sold at all druggists. 50c and $1.00. Trial bottle free.

Blind Men Seldom Smoke.

Blind men seldom smoke. Those who were inveterate smokers in their sighted days find that after losing their sight a pipe or a cigar has no attraction for them. The man who has no eyes to watch the smoke curl about his head apparently has no use for a cigar.

Smoking to the absolutely blind is something different from smoking in the dark. Besides, few persons smoke in total darkness. Usually there is starlight or firelight enough to enable a man to keep track of the smoke. When deprived of the fascinating pastime the cigar loses its charm, and the man who is blind resigns himself to a smokeless old age.—New York Press.

ROOSEVELT WILL TAKE THE STUMP

Reliable Information Received at Fairview.

Bryan Makes Some Changes in His Itinerary to Spend More Time in West.

TAFT CLOSING AT YOUNGSTOWN.

That President Roosevelt fully intends to take the stump in favor of Taft was the information received at Fairview today from the east. It was said that the advice came from persons upon whom reliance could be placed, and were to the effect that Roosevelt was planning to make at least six speeches in the course of a trip from the Atlantic to the Pacific, the concluding speech to be delivered at San Francisco with numerous short speeches en route. Bryan, however, absolutely refused to make any comment upon the subject.

In order to devote still further attention to Iowa, the Democratic candidate announced a change in his plans in connection with his trip to Chicago, where on the night of the seventh he is to meet Taft at a banquet.

Instead of leaving Tuesday afternoon and going direct to Chicago as had been arranged, Bryan will start for Des Moines, from which point he will on Tuesday proceed to Perry, Tama and Cedar Rapids and deliver set speeches, while from the rear platform of the train en route, he will probably make short talks. The journey to Chicago will be made Tuesday night.

It now is planned that Bryan shall speak in St. Louis Friday evening, and then re-enter Kansas on Saturday for a full day in that state, returning to Lincoln Sunday. It is also likely that before making a final trip into midwest and east he will spend a day or two campaigning in Nebraska.

Tomorrow evening Bryan will go to Haverlock, where are located the shops of the Burlington railroad, and address the laboring men. Taft a few days ago spoke at the same place.

Taft's Plans.

Kansas City, Mo., Oct. 5.—It has been definitely decided that Judge Taft shall close his campaign the night of November 2 at Youngstown, Ohio. The national campaign of the party was opened at that place with Governor Hughes as the principal speaker and it has been deemed fitting that the national candidate should make his closing address at that place.

After the Youngstown meeting Taft will leave for Cincinnati to cast his vote the following day.

The details of the itinerary of the candidate after he closes his western tour in Chicago Wednesday night will be completed, it is said, this week. Taft reached the city at 7 o'clock this morning from Topeka and was met by a welcoming committee consisting of Senator William Warner and others. Taft had some time ago consented to talk of the work of the Y. M. C. A. to an audience of men at the Independence Avenue Methodist Episcopal church. The audience completely filled the church and the crowd outside which demanded admission was twice the number inside. Windows in the edifice were broken, so great was the eagerness of the crowd to get a glimpse of the candidate, and it was only after it had been announced that Taft would address an overflow meeting that the inside meeting was allowed to proceed.

Taft delivered the same speech he made last Sunday to a similar audience in St. Paul. The speech was received with interest and enthusiasm. He made no reference to politics.

When the outdoor meeting had also been addressed Judge Taft was informed by a committee which had been waiting for him that a large meeting of negro men and women had assembled at the Independence Baptist church with the full expectation that he would come there and say just a word.

Taft made a brief address to them, telling his hearers he was a friend of Court Holds Newspapers Not Merchandise in Child Labor Case.

Washington, Oct. 5.—In the supreme court Judge De Lacey rendered a decision maintaining the constitutionality of the act to regulate child labor in the District of Columbia, and decided that newspapers, in the sense in which they are named in the act, are not merchandise. In the case of the district against Lynn L. Reider, a boy under 16 years of age, the prosecution sought to prevent his employment in the delivery of newspapers before 6 o'clock in the morning, on the ground that the act provides that no child under 16 shall be so engaged in the delivery of merchandise before that hour. Judge De Lacey, holding that newspapers are not merchandise, dismissed the case.

CONGREGATIONS LARGE YESTERDAY

Sunday School Rallies at Many Churches.

Plans for Revival Services Are Being Laid—Excellent Music Was Enjoyed.

REV. T. C. GEBAUER IS HERE

The cool weather brought out large audiences at all of the churches yesterday and Paducah enjoyed good sermons. It was the first Sunday in October and as nearly all of the vacationists have returned from summer tours the churches were filled with familiar faces. Services were held at all of the churches.

The congregation of the Cumberland Presbyterian church held the first services yesterday in the new church on Trimble street. At both services there were large audiences. The Rev. R. Lee Kirkland, of Evansville, filed the pulpit, and in the evening standing room was at a premium. One addition was made to the church membership. Dr. Kirkpatrick spoke on the "Loveliness of God" in the morning, while in the evening his subject was: "All Things Working Together."

Two splendid services were held at the Broadway Methodist church yesterday by the Rev. G. T. Sullivan. At the morning sermon communion was served, while the subject of the sermon was: "The Sacrament and Those Who Should Take It." One adult and three infants were baptized and seven cards for admittance were received. "Lazarus and the Rich Man" was the subject of the evening sermon. Miss Emma Knapp, of Evansville, sang the evening offertory. This week will be an especial one of interest. Tonight the stewards will hold the regular monthly meeting. Tuesday night the Sunday school teachers and officials will hold a meeting with Mrs. Mildred Davis, 620 Kentucky avenue, for the purpose of reorganization for the autumn. Wednesday evening a special prayer service for the young men of the city will be held at the church and Thursday evening a men's meeting will be held. It will be presided over by Dr. Vernon Blythe, and a fine program will be arranged. There will be music and speeches and an enjoyable evening.

A revival service began at the North Twelfth Street Baptist church yesterday by the pastor, the Rev. J. R. Clark. The services will be continued for two weeks at least and longer if the public interest demands it. Mr. Clark will be assisted in the meeting by the Rev. Terry Martin, an evangelist of Mayfield. Two additions were had the first day of the revival.

Regular services were held at the First Christian church yesterday by the Rev. S. B. Moore, the pastor. At the morning service Dr. Moore spoke on "One Clear Vision of Christ." He read from a weekly paper of the many sensational subjects selected by some preachers in order to get notoriety and audiences. Dr. Moore deplored these, and said that he considered it a lowering of the dignity of Paducah.

In the afternoon an address on "Christian Citizenship" was given by Mrs. Susan Fessenden, of Boston.

Mrs. Fessenden is a charming speaker and the large audience did not doubt that she knew her subject. Mrs. Fessenden spoke on "Salvation By Grace" in the evening, Sunday, October 18, the revival will begin at the church. Dr. W. B. Nowlin, of Owensboro, will lead the meeting. Dr. Nowlin is pastor of the Third Baptist church in Owensboro and one of the largest in the state.

Owing to the illness of the Rev. J. W. Bruner no services were held at the Second Baptist church yesterday.

Sunday school was held in the morning.

The Rev. T. C. Gebauer, of Henderson, preached at the German Evangelical church yesterday. In the evening he gave a stereopticon lecture on "The Book of St. John."
